

Cancer Cure Finally Found

Anthony M. Antonacci NMD, CSCS, DC, FASBE

“It never ceases to surprise me at the infinite capacity of the human mind to resist the introduction of useful knowledge”

-Thomas Raynesford Lounsbury
19th Century Educator

I am a cancer patient and the above statement is an understatement. My opinion is much stronger regarding the current state of the human intellect. It never ceases to amaze me how people will listen and believe blatant lies in the face of sheer truth, and then act on those lies to their demise. I bought into it 17 years ago, so I get it. I was naïve and ignorant and I succumbed to the Allopathic MD Oncology quackery because I trusted them and I have never been the same.

This essay will be too long for most to read because we really don't care about our health until we lose it especially to cancer and then we panic. Unfortunately, it is often too late. And then we will allow the MD quacks to pump our body full of their toxic biohazard poisons until we die because we want the quick cure they promised us.

I am left in absolute awe at how well the Allopathic MD oncology community has convinced people to embrace and follow treatment options that have been proven and shown to repeatedly to harm us and cause death when it comes to cancer. The same treatment, for the last 60+ years, that leads us unsuspecting cancer patients to literal slaughter. And, predominately, due to the fact we choose to accept a perceived quick cure over a long term healing.

600,000 people per year die of the treatment of cancer, not cancer

1,644 per day

68 per hour

1 per minute of my cancer brothers and sisters murdered by Allopathic MD oncology

Nothing on the planet kills more people than Allopathic MD oncology. Nothing. 1 person per minute? Bogue wars do not even do that. Car accidents do not even do that. Flesh eating bacteria does not even do that. The Flu does not even come close to doing that or any other disease known to man. Even the CIA supported Mexican cartels, fueled by this rubbish war on drugs does not even do that. Nothing even comes close. And we run to get their poison drained into your blood, weekly.

The spread of cancer or what is termed “Metastasis” is responsible for most cancer related deaths. The expression of mutated DNA or atypical cellular presentation due to cumulative toxic overload and nutrient deficiencies or what we wrongly term, “cancer cells” and the interaction with the endogenous microenvironment along with exogenous environmental events combine to express the metastatic process.

Cancer deaths have been largely due to the treatment of cancer, round after round of chemotherapy which, for decades, has been known to not cure cancer, and now, to include the “targeted immune therapies” which often include chemotherapy and can cost as much as 1 million dollars per patient. If we survive chemotherapy long term, we did it because we either drastically changed our lifestyle and were very disciplined in our approach with addressing the systemic toxic load of the blood and tissues and nutrient deficiencies or we had the genetics to survive the systemic poisoning of our body. And if we do not look to the blood, which oncology does not, then we have a very high percentage of reoccurrence in the same area or somewhere else in the body years later. Ask the MD oncologist, “why did the cancer return with vengeance and why did it spread?”

Chemotherapy and radiation have never “cured” anything. Poisoning a body to near death to provide a “cure” is quackery and has never worked. The oncology experts with integrity are even stating that. Why aren’t we listening?

Chemotherapy always comes with lifetime side effects. The system of Allopathic oncology has failed miserably in its ability to explain the metastatic process because if they embraced, what we have known since the early 1900’s, it would completely undermine the multi-billion dollar cottage industry known as “Find the Cure” with the October pink campaigns that have done nothing to advance breast cancer research or cures or treatment or empathy or compassion for breast cancer or any cancer patient. A noble idea however most of that money we aimlessly throw at those events never gets to where we think it does, cutting edge and improved and effective treatment for the patient with improved life expectancy and not for just 2 more months.

We are not “cancer survivors”. We are a “survivors of the treatment of cancer” in this country. I refuse, as a cancer patient that was hacked in surgery, to refer to myself as a cancer survivor. That would be an affront and an insult to my intelligence and it would give credence to a system that failed me and almost killed me as it has many of my fellow cancer patients. I am a survivor of their continued failures, 17 years later. And I am here solely because I took back control of my well being and health, which they had destroyed, with an aggressive naturopathic approach and with discipline and provided my body with the appropriate environment to heal from cancer without poisoning or burning it beyond repair.

Cancer metastasizes or spreads via THE BLOOD. We have known that since 1916 when Dr. Gunther Enderlein identified that fact thru live blood cell analysis illustrating the endobiot and protit activity and pleomorphic mutations. And recently, French researcher, Pierre Henri Mangin who published his findings in JCI Insight and Dr. Denis Wirtz from Johns Hopkins concur with Dr. Enderlein’s work from 100 years ago and claiming this historical research as a new breakthrough in cancer research. Why hasn’t cancer research taken that history to heart and run with it for the cure? Because it would mean dismantling the entire cancer monetary industry of cut, poison, burn and place billions of dollars a year at risk.

I just, now, finished watching an interview with a cancer researcher from Weil Cornell Medical School that stated, “the cancer tumor moves through the body looking around until it finds a good place for it to roost and grow”. Today, October 22, 2016. That is what trillions of dollars in research gets you; a non-sensical, ill-logical rubbish acid flashback. And at the end of the interview, she stated the following, “we need more research funding to find better ways of treating cancer.” Translation: Give me more money so I can simply monitor my PhD candidates as they do my bought and paid for research as I continue my personal experiments with LSD. Quackery at its best and we believe this nonsense? Fear is quite the motivator isn’t it? How about we gain some knowledge, do our own research and not be led over the cliff with the rest of the indoctrinated sheep, to our death at their hands? How about we stop listening to MD oncology hacks that are trained in a system that does not work and start taking back control of our lives and our health?

There is no such thing as a “cure”. 600,000 people die, each year, from Allopathic treatment of cancer in this country. And since wasting Trillions of dollars on “cancer research” since President Nixon started the “war on the dreaded cancer”, almost 60 years ago, how much better off are we? Chemotherapy was the soup de jour then and the soup de jour now as it still maims, disfigures and kills as well as all the new and improved Immune stimulation drugs that they are just now finding are toxic as well and beyond the affordable ability of most at 1 million dollars a patient. They have made absolutely no strides forward in life expectancy. In fact, life expectancy is longer when patients refuse genotoxin’s such as chemotherapy over patients who opt for chemotherapy. And we see it.

And now we have President Obama’s “Moon Shot” in the war on cancer, which only throws more money at research that has not improved treatment or life expectancy. Moon Shot? Who comes up with this rubbish to fool us that they really give a rip about us? They don’t. Moon shot? Hmm. Sounds like a mix of tequila, xtasy and LSD. What a bunch of nonsense. The gloves are off because if I don’t bring the truth, no one will. Everyone is playing the PC game and I refuse to keep quiet as I see them harm us with their rhetoric that is killing us and our loved ones. And almost killed me. I lived their quackery and incompetency.

They don’t have a clue how it feels when we are told we are going to die from cancer. They have never felt the numbness, the shock and the terror as they tell you, you have 3 months to live and then callously walk out of the room. How dare they?

Enter Dr. Wally Curran, executive director at the Winship Cancer Institute at Emory who thinks President Obama’s priority is timely.

Dr. Curran does NOT think a cure for cancer is possible and of course thinks more research funding and leadership on the issue will improve life expectancy and making living with more cancers akin to managing a chronic disease. Do you see a pattern with cancer researchers, yet? After over 60 years and trillions wasted, they only want more money for more research with no cure possible. Dr. Curran further states, “We don’t have a cure for high blood pressure or diabetes, but people live good lives for years if these diseases are managed.” Pardon me? Since when is there no cure for hypertension or diabetes? Those are very reversible depending on the responsibility of the patients and the clinical competency of the doctor. The problem, most of the time, is the severe lack of the later which is usually an MD.

Since when does the most serious life threatening disease ever known to humanity become on par with high blood pressure and become a manageable chronic disease? BTW, as of this year, cancer now has equaled and is slowly surpassing heart disease as the number one killer of Americans followed by Allopathic MD errors. The very people we run to for the “cure” are now the #2 killer of all of us. The MD. Scary, huh? The public does not know the half of it.

Enter cancer researcher, Barrie Bode. “A cancer cure is unlikely and when I give that answer it is a disappointment to a lot of people. The science is closing in on making cancer something we will be able to effectively manage.” I am a bit confused. Does that mean, I will manage my cancer while I die of the treatment of it? And we trust these hack quacks?

How do they go from telling me, 17 years ago, I was going to die in 1 month and leave my young daughter, fatherless, to telling me I can now live a vibrant dynamic life for years as I manage my cancer with genotoxic drugs that will eventually kill me? Quite interesting.

46 years ago, at the age of 48, my father was told by the Veterans Administration hospital, as a Bronze Star recipient for heroism in WW2, if he did not have a bone marrow transplant and subsequent chemotherapy and radiation and immunosuppressive drugs that would debilitate him for over a year, he would be dead in 3 weeks. He had already spent 6 months in the hospital. He declined and came home and was never on any medication, chemotherapy or Allopathic treatment. He changed his lifestyle, remained steadfast in his faith and hope and just passed 3 months ago, 2016, at 94 years old with no disease and without the need for a protracted illness and hospital stays and lots of attention.

We are an experiment. When are we going to wrap our minds around that, when we die and our family can say we battled cancer to our death? No, we died of and battled Allopathic MD quackery. They killed us, not cancer. We create our illness. It did not just drop out of the sky and into our body overnight. It took years to manifest our illness or dis-ease and now we want the quick “cure”?

And we actually think that after years of surgeries, round after round of chemotherapy and radiation and an irresponsible lifestyle, we are going to get better in 30 days? We think since we were deemed, “cancer free” we can go back to our irresponsible lifestyle and when it resurfaces we can get all the attention we wanted because of our irresponsibility? That is not how it works. That failure is ultimately on us, not our doctor.

Why is it we can take cancer patients, who can take disciplined responsibility for themselves, off of Hospice and return them to a vibrant life while Allopathic MD oncology fails them and tells them to go home and die. And we don't diagnose or treat cancer or any disease. How can that be? We go to the source of dis-ease in the body and put out the entire fire so it never returns, if you are disciplined. They put band-aids on every little symptom that only creates long term dis-ease or death. You don't chase symptoms to health. You find the source of the symptom and eradicate it. Cancer is a symptom, not a disease.

We need, more than ever, to take back control of our health because if we think for one moment we are going to get HEALTH and PREVENTION OF DISEASE advice from an Allopathic MD, we are highly delusional and we might want to consider putting down the crack pipe and take the needle out of our arm. We need a major paradigm shift in order for us to understand these are paint by number prescription writers, any longer, that can only provide crisis care, because they have monopolized it, and not health care. The game has changed and changed seriously in the direction of no health care, just more cut, poison and burn.

How can a Kaiser MD listen to us intently when they only have 11 minutes to take our history, do a consultation, a thorough examination, conclude a diagnosis and decide on a treatment protocol? They cannot and that is why we are frustrated with what we call health care in this country and we remain sick and ill.

The Physicians Foundation just released their 2016 biennial MD survey's. 54% of all MD's rated their morale as extremely negative and 49% saying they always feel burnt out! The Physicians Foundation stated that this is alarming and a detriment to patient care. Really?

48% of all MD's graded the Affordable Care Act with a D or F. Over 50% of the time we encounter an MD whether in an exam room or ER their morale is extremely negative and they are tired and apathetic. Do I need to say anything more relative to the quality of attention and care we will receive? Kaiser doctors have a maximum of 11 minutes to see us and the fee is several hundred dollars that we don't pay for so we don't care, do we? Patients I see have unlimited time and usually the appointments run 3-4 hours knee to knee for a fraction of what the Kaiser technician charges.

Clearly the only way we give a rip about our own life is if someone else is paying for it, huh? Guess what? They are no longer paying for much or what we really need. Insurance companies dictate treatment protocols, not the doctor. They change doctors orders routinely, now, for cheaper treatment or no treatment at all as our premiums keep rising with higher deductibles. And we can thank the Affordable Care Act for that. Not so affordable or effective, is it?

The same survey stated that insurance carriers have forced MD's to be box checkers or paint by numbers technicians with no autonomy, any longer. The doctors feel the patients have been turned into simple data and numbers, which we have. How safe do we feel, now, with that in mind, as they just told us, we have 4th stage lung cancer and have 3 weeks to live because chemo nor any other drug will save us? And we only have 11 minutes to discuss our impending death with our Kaiser doctor who often can barely speak English?

If we are on any medication such as diabetes, cholesterol, hypertension, mood altering meds, etc., we are not well. We are sick. These meds were never intended to be used lifetime as they are now. And now, they want to place us on Chemotherapy, lifetime, to manage our cancer. Actually, they have been doing that for quite sometime. They simply want to increase that usage. That is absolutely insanity. And you know what created that insanity? Our irresponsibility and need for a quick fix cure. We created it and they are more than willing to poison us to death and profit handsomely, as they are.

What on earth is it about the aforementioned statements that we don't understand? What? What is it about healthcare we understand other than our need for the quick fix cure that has failed us because of our irresponsibility and that someone else will pay for? Well, we got what you paid for, didn't we? I have toured most Tijuana cancer clinics to include the most notable, which was highlighted in recent cancer videos, and met personally, with the very charismatic and gracious medical director and owner and spoken with patients that are housed there as I have with patients from many TJ cancer clinics I have toured.

Recidivism is quite lucrative, isn't it? Placing people on toxic drugs like Metformin and Celebrex lifetime, suggesting chemotherapy and sending them home with $1,600 worth of vitamins per month on endless month after month and then telling them they have to come back every 3-6 months at several thousand dollars a pop after the initial $30,000 for 21 days is quite the price tag, isn't it?

We need to get to the source of the symptom of cancer to understand the dis-ease that exists in our body, mind and spirit and most Allopathic MD oncologists do not how to get there. We can continue chasing our symptoms with more poison, more burning and more surgery or get serious and take back control of our health and well being, which we can do. Provided it is not too late.
